Play a Round at Windy Knoll

Windy Knoll is one of the newest courses in the Springfield area and an excellent addition to the rich golf tradition of Ohio. This Scottish links-style layout honors the history of the game while also masterfully preserving and integrating many of the characteristics of the original horse farm found on the property. Designed by Brian Huntley, the 6834 yard championship venue offers a wealth of amenities and special touches.

The 510 yard No. 3 serves as the signature hole. Called "Four Ten," the par 5 can be reached in two with a big draw or power fade off the tee. But don't get too cocky. A creek runs down the left side and a pond comes into play on the final approach to a postage stamp-sized green.

The 445 yard No. 15 dubbed "Turning Home" is arguably the toughest hole. Water all down the left side forces players to favor the right side of the fairway where mounding and trees can come into play. The green is long and kidney-shaped with a very narrow approach guarded by a large bunker on the right and a fall off apron in back.

Number 8 is appropriately called "Genuine Risk." This short par 4 only plays 300 yards from the back tees and tempts players to go for the green. A more likely outcome is a tee shot that finds one of the eight bunkers on this hole.

Windy Knoll ends with the longest hole on the course. The 565 yard par 5 is nicknamed "Final Furlong" and can be reached in two if the wind is at your back or if you are kin to John Daly. Beware of second shots that drift left or right because two water hazards on either side will quickly bring bogey or worse into the equation.
